

Shu Ikushima

Film Director

Shu Ikushima was born in Fukuoka, Japan in 1984. He joined KOO-KI in 2009 after graduating from Kyushu Institute of Design.

His work often features 2D motion graphics and animation, but he is also experienced in 3DCG and live action, working on all stages from illustration and design to compositing.

His most notable works include the opening film of "Power Pros" series, opening films for the broadcasting station NHK Otsu, and an exhibition film for Fukuoka Zoo. He has also done promotional videos for YAMAP and "Crazy Summer Paradise" by the band FREAK.

His recent works, "CRAFT BOSS x Kirby: Eraberutte Tanoshii (It's fun to choose)!" for Suntory, and "Habatake, Watashi (Spreading my wings): Miyama Akane version" for Tombow, were nominated for three categories at Kyoto Ani Monozukuri Award2022.
